| 6/10/04 Macbeth, Act II | "Methought I heard a voice cry "Sleep no more! Macbeth does murder sleep" -- the innocent sleep, Sleep that knits up the raveled sleeve [sic] of care..." p. 57 Look for: * examples of lives that intersect; * acts of compassion; and * cause and effect relationships | This is a great quote about the importance of sleep's knitting up a raveled sleeve, putting it back the way it was before the day wore it out. The quote reminds me of a poem we read about each day being a new sheet of paper that we can fold up and file away if things didn't go so well. |
