

Book Invitations

Assignment: Write an invitation to a book you have read recently. You want to invite your readers to experience your book, so make the outside look as inviting as possible. Decorate it as you would a card, designing it in the shape of something meaningful or symbolic in the story. (Example: The novel, Hatchet, could have a hatchet-shaped book invitation).

What to include:

1. Your name and date on the BACK of the Invitation 5/___
2. The title of the book. 5/___
3. The author of the book. 5/___
4. The first line of the book invitation states, "You are invited to read..." 5/___
5. You included the names of the main characters in the book 5/___
 6. You included the setting of the book. 5/___
 7. You included the main conflict. 10/___
 8. You didn't give away the ending. 10/___
 9. The book invitation is interesting to read. 5/___
 10. The book invitation is written in pen or typed. 5/___

Presentation

1. The invitation is neat and easy to read. 5/___
2. The invitation has been illustrated. 5/___
3. The invitation's cover represents something significant from the story. 5/___
